About Speaker

Dr. Aravinda Meera Guntupalli is a distinguished alumni of the International Institute for Population Sciences (IIPS) and works as a Senior Lecturer in Global Health at the University of Aberdeen, United Kingdom. Her academic journey started with a BSc in Genetics, Chemistry and Zoology and she later completed her Masters in Anthropology from Hyderabad Central University. Dr. Aravinda completed her Masters in Population Studies from IIPS and she holds a PhD in Economics from the University of Tuebingen, Germany. After her post-doctoral fellowship from University of Southampton and subsequently working in The University of Southampton and The Open University, she joined the University of Aberdeen in 2019. Her research focuses on health inequalities across the life course, nutrition and food insecurity among migrants, multidimensional poverty among older people and NCD related-inequalities in middle-aged and older adults in low and middle-income countries.
