About CDG

The International Institute for Population Sciences launched the “Centre of Demography of Gender’ within the Department of Population and Development on 01 October, 2021. The centre aims to carry out high-quality, interdisciplinary teaching and empirical research on various aspects related to population, health, and development in India and abroad. A key mandate of the centre is to develop gender-related course curriculum which suits the requirements of various stakeholders. Capacity building, through tailor-made short-term courses, is also an important agenda of the new centre. In addition, the centre will act as a central gender data repository in India from where individuals, institutions or other stakeholders can access all data related to issues on gender. The centre will also provide timely policy inputs to the central and state governments and local administrative bodies for the formulation of appropriate policies and programmes from time to time. The centre also intends to bring together Indian and international experts working on gender and related issues at one platform for knowledge sharing and developing best practices related to teaching and research on gender. About the CDG Internship

The CDG has proposed an internship program for young researchers with an aim of inculcating research interests in gender and demography. During the internship period, the interns will be encouraged to undertake high-quality empirical research on various topics, including population, health, gender and development. The interns can also participate in centre’s academic activities, such as course curriculum development, preparing the data repository etc. During the internship period, the interns will have an opportunity to work with the expert members of the CDG on their interested research themes.
